Emergency Alert System Test

Wednesday, May 7, 2025 at 1:55 pm (PDT)

The national emergency alert system is tested twice a year, when possible. The next tests are scheduled for Wednesday, May 7, 2025 at 1:55 pm (PDT) and Wednesday, November 19, 2025, 2025 at 1:55 pm (PST).

During a system test, an alert tone and message are broadcast to radio, TV, and compatible cell phones. In advance of the test, some carriers may do silent tests of their systems. Depending on your phone's settings, you may receive an early alert message without sound. If you have an app on your phone that notifies you of emergency information, you may also receive the alert test there.

Alert Ready is a Canada-wide system that B.C. uses to send emergency alerts to cell phones, radio and TV. This system is only used during large-scale disasters or life-threatening emergencies. Alert Ready is tested across Canada following a set testing schedule. For more information about BC Emergency Alerts, contact the Ministry of Emergency Management and Climate Readiness \(EMCR\). The AlertReady website also provides additional information about B.C.'s alerting system.
