UPDATES FROM THE MUNICIPALITY

(Week 8)

Work at Beach Park continued steadily this week, bringing several key components of the project closer to completion. The new septic tank is now fully installed, and the septic field is in the process of being expanded to support capacity requirements and reliability. In the upper grassed area, crews will be installing herringbone drainage to improve year-round usability, particularly for community gatherings and special events.

Jetty construction has also begun. As part of this work, the large cedar tree at the foreshore had to be removed. This decision followed the advice of a certified arborist, who confirmed the tree was in declining health, and its location directly conflicted with the jetty installation.

The Village will continue to provide regular updates as Beach Park improvements progress.

Septic Field Expansion

Preparation Works for Jetty Replacement

Public Works thanks residents for their forbearance during our specialist contractor census of the Village's 580 private property water meter locations. We expect their report in a week or two, after which we will be in position to tender for meter box installation as illustrated here. The plan is to break ground early in the New Year, and be finished within 2026. Frequently asked questions are answered at All-Zone All-Property Water Metering 2025/26 on the municipality website.

The municipal bus stop on the Islevue bridge over Harvey Creek is relocating 50 m south to the Highway 99 southbound onramp, at the behest of, and funded by, the Ministry of Transport and Transit. Our request for proposals is available for public review here. The new bus pullout will accommodate future full-length service in addition to Translink's commuter buses, perhaps BC Transit, Snow Bus, Squamish Connector and others negotiated at political level. The shelter will protect up to 12 seated. The Ministry will also issue a permit to formalise pedestrian use of their onramp to access the Kelvin Grove Trail, protected by concrete road barriers. The onramp width accommodates pedestrian walkway, road barrier, bike lane, traffic lane and fog line offset, to MOTT standards. Once the site's retention wall is in place, a sight fence will be tucked into the forest.

Wildlife Sightings

Coyote Sightings in Lions Bay

Residents are encouraged to stay vigilant after recent coyote sightings along Panorama Road and Oceanview Road. Coyotes are common in our region, but it's important to keep pets close and remove attractants like unsecured garbage or outdoor food.

If you spot a coyote:

- Stay calm. Do not run or turn your back - that can trigger a chase instinct.
- Make yourself look big and loud. Wave your arms, shout, stomp your feet, and if you have a stick or noise-making tool, use it. This “hazing” helps the coyote associate humans with fear, encouraging them to retreat.
- Keep children and pets close. Ideally pick up small children or pets, or bring them indoors immediately.

To reduce the chance of future encounters:

- Never feed coyotes - either intentionally or indirectly (e.g. by leaving pet food outside).
- Secure garbage bins, compost, fallen fruit, and whatever might attract rodents - since rodents attract coyotes.
- Keep small pets indoors or under close supervision (especially at night).

If you see a coyote acting aggressively, menacingly, or lingering in a neighbourhood; or if there's a direct risk to pets or people - contact the BC Conservation Officer Service (COS) at 1-877-952-7277 (or #7277 on a cell) to report the animal.
